The Game of Bridge. How like the game of life is Bridge When fortune deals the cards! We strive for honors—if we fall— To others the awards.

Like clouds across our brightest dreams, Fall blackest clubs and spades; The heart suit we had hoped to hold Like an illusion fades.

We bridge our woes, as in this world, We oft must learn to do, And if our partner makes it "hearts" We pluck up heart anew.

'Tis then a valiant game we play,
And great successes score!
For who can fall, when hearts ring true?
What mortal can ask more?

Mrs. Knott's Report.

The following article, published yes-terday in the Sun, gives the impressions of Mrs. Leo Knott, of Baltimore, a guest of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities in the trip to of Virginia Antiquities in the trip to Jamestown on Saturday. The Richmond Jamestown Committee, the Common-wealth Chapter, Daughters of the Amer-ican Revolution, and others will be in-terested to know that Mrs. Knott said:

wealth Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and others will be interested to know that Mrs. Knott said:

"The Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities has and is necomplishing a great work in saving the records and relies of Virginia's giorious past from annihilation and oblivion. When the association first obtained possession of the island it found the ruins covered to a depth of three or four feet. with earth, and many a crop of corn and wheat had been raised above the foundations. They removed this earth and discovered the foundation of the Governor's house and several of the principal buildings. In the basement of the Governor's mansion is a deep well, probably for use in case of siege by the Indians. "The good work of the Virginia Association should inspire us in Maryland to do the same for St. Mary's, where was sown the first seed of religious liberty in this country. There is a singular resemblance in the histories of the two ancient capitals of Virginia and Maryland. That of Virginia and Maryland was burnt during the invasion of Richard Ingle, and both ceased to be capitals about the same time.

"After the capital was moved from Jamestown to Williamsburg only two families remained on the Island. They were the Ambler and Travis families. As a borough, Jamestown was entitled to a representative in the Virginia House of Burgesses, and each year a Travis or an Ambler would be elected by his neighbors to fill that position. Finally the Travis family moved, whereupon the members of the Ambler family elected their family lead as representative.

"The Virginia Colonial Dames are contemplating the creetion of a brick building to luclose the wale of the old church, and the Virginia Daughters, nor to be outdone by their sister society, wish to erect a memorial building to be used as a relic hall.

"We were delightfully entertained by our host, the Virginia association, and

In the Courts.

There were but few cases of public interest on the Chesterfield Court docket, and Judge Watson disposed of most of them in short order. Much of the day was taken up by the court in hearing applications for liquor licenses. Several were granted and others went over until the June term.

Mayor Maurice did not have any very important cases before him yesterday.

A few drunks made up the docket, and it was quickly disposed of.

Religious Move,

Many revivals are now in progress in the Manchester churches, and as a result a religious wave is noticeable throughout the city and suburbs. In Bainbridge Street Baptist Church the afternoon and Street Baptist Church the afternoon and evening services are growing in interest, and both Dr. Baldy, the pastor, and the Rev. Dr. W. C. Boston Business Man Cured By Cuticura of Awful Humor Covering Head, Neck, and Shoulders After Hospital and Doctors Failed.

Under date of September 9, 1904, Mr. S. P. Keyes, a well-known busi-uess man of No. 149 Congress Street, Boston, Mass., says: "Cuticure Boston, Mass., says: "Cuticura did wonders for me. For twenty-five years I suf-fered agony from a terrible humour, completely cover-ing my head, neck and shoulders, ing my head, neck and shoulders, discharging matter of such offensiveness to sight even to my wife, I became an object of dread. At large expense I consulted the most able doctors far and near. Their treatment was of no avail, nor was that of the — hospital, during six months' efforts. I suffered on and concluded there was no help for me this side of the grave. Then I heard of some one who had been cured by Cuticura, and thought that a trial could do no harm. In a surprisingly short time I was completely cured."

Instantaneous Photography.

The photography of objects moving at high speeds, or, what is the same thing, the taking of a photograph by exceedingly brief exposure—a thousandth of a second or less—is one of the most interesting achievements of modern science. This high speed work dates back scarcely ten years, yet pictures that involve it are passed by without special comment. I have tried "Babek" for the last four years, both as a preventive and
